EDMONTON, ALBERTA THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1903.

NO. 106

FROM OTTAWA

May 1, 1903.
Bulletin Correspondence.

The budget debate was concluded this morning at three o'clock by the first important vote of the session. The division was almost a strictly party one and stood 108 to 54 or two to one. Mr. Tarte voted for the amendment for the leader of the opposition in favor of high protection, and Robinson of West Elgin, who sits on the Conservative side, voted with the government.

The last day's proceedings in the debate were much the most interesting after the announcement of the Finance Minister at the beginning. The debate was taken part in on the government side by J. D. Grant, the new Liberal member for North Ontario, by D. C. Fraser, L. Lemieux, A. W. Patten and Hon. Mr. Patterson, Minister of Customs. The cause of the opposition was upheld by Broder of Dundas, and Clark of Toronto, who fired the last gun for the opposition. A full house and galleries greeted Mr. Grant in his first speech. In figure he is tall and spare and being clean shaven has a decidedly youthful appearance. As the man who vanquished Mr. Foster in a Conservative constituency, a great deal of interest centered, not only in his personality, but in the stand which he would take. He placed himself squarely for low tariff as being in the best interests of the country in general and the farmers in particular, so much had been said as to the prosperity which had come to the farmers of the United States as the result of the protective tariff, he had looked into the United States census returns for verification, but had found that so far from these returns bearing out the contention of increased prosperity among the farmers of the States it showed the direct opposite. Farmers in the United States did not produce anything like as much value for wheat as the farmers of Canada and the number of tons of wheat in the States was increasing much more rapidly than those with independent holdings. Mr. Grant is a man of pronounced views, with the ability of compelling and expressing them in the most convincing manner. Fraser, of Guelph, made a rattling speech in his usual effective style and declared very strongly for the principle of tariff for revenue and against tariff increases. Mr. Lemieux delivered a most clever and interesting address, taking the same ground that the principle of tariff for revenue was the correct principle for Canada and not a tariff for protection. He pointed out that there had been some five by-elections in the province of Quebec since last session at every one of which tariff increase was made an issue by the opposition and in every one it had been defeated. Mr. Patten spoke as representing the labor interests, and declared himself squarely against the amendment on the leader of the opposition on the ground that increased tariff means increased cost of living to the laboring man without any guarantee of increased wages. He said that speaking for the laboring classes he would agree to tariff increases if accompanied by a satisfactory wage schedule. But until the manufacturers were prepared to bind themselves to give adequate wages the laborer only stood to lose by increases in the cost of living produced by high tariff. He said of course after the manufacturers and laborer had adjusted the matter of protection and wages between them, the farmers would have to be heard and in the end after allowing him any measure of protection he might ask, his last conclusion would be worse than his first.

The principal speech was made by the Minister of Customs, Mr. Patterson, who, being a manufacturer, is generally accused of being a protectionist. In fact, now that Mr. Tarte has resigned, he is considered to be the protectionist member of the Cabinet. But there was nothing to indicate that position in his speech. On the contrary, he was at pains to read from the Record of last session the objection taken by the Minister of Public Works to an increase in the duties on fruits and vegetables coming from the United States. In the course of that debate Mr. Tarte had said, "I am a protectionist, but it is necessary to use common sense in dealing with matters of trade." The Minister said that he had been accused of frequently seeing eye to eye with Mr. Tarte and he gladdened himself at the charge in this case. The Minister was most effective in nailing the opposition and its leader to the definition of what was meant by the very adjustable phrase, "adequate protection." He asked Mr. Broder, as to the report of a certain meeting held in Southern Manitoba at which, he, Broder, was asked as to his position in regard to duties on agricultural implements. "In replying Mr. Broder said the published report was incorrect, that he had been asked first if he proposed to abolish the duties on agricultural implements. To this he had replied "No." To the second question, if he intended to increase the duties, he had replied that if it were necessary for the preservation of that industry in Canada he would increase the duties. Mr. Patterson pointed out that this was not an answer to the question. The policy of the Government on the tariff was contained in the budget proposition placed before the House. They were fighting in the open. The country knew to a decimal fraction what their position was in regard to every article in the tariff list. But when the leader of the opposition was asked to say what his position actually was in regard to a single item he had given an evasive answer. He then turned his attention to the speeches which had been made in the course of the debate by members of the opposition, quoting especially Mr. Taylor, Conservative whip, and Mr. Blain, of Peel. Mr. Taylor had declared in favor of duties up to one hundred per cent to preserve the home market to Canadian manufacturers. Mr. Blain had declared himself equally strongly for increase of the duties that would preserve the farmers of Canada from outside competition. Both reiterated their statements in response to Mr. Patterson's query. Then he said, "We have the definition of what adequate protection means from the followers of the leader of the opposition in his presence; and here and now before the vote on his amendment is taken, he must repudiate the meaning given by his followers to the words 'adequate protection' that is to say, 'duties sufficiently high to prohibit the importation of manufactured or agricultural products, the like of which are produced in Canada' or by his silence must be bound by them." This naturally produced very considerable cross-firing between the minister on the one hand, and Messrs. Broder and Taylor on the other, but the result remained that the Minister stuck to his point and the leader of the opposition did not repudiate the position taken by his followers. Therefore the occasion being what it was he stands bound by his interpretation. Of course there was really no need of going to the trouble that the Minister did to prove what was the real position of the opposition on the subject of tariff. It is perfectly well known and understood that they stand for a prohibitory tariff, but in view of the double faced arguments which were used by this same opposition during the last campaign it became altogether desirable that they should not be left able to take a like position in future. As the Minister pointed out on this very question of agricultural implements they stand committed to a duty that will keep out American machinery; and as he said when there was a 35 per cent duty that was not sufficient, a duty higher than 45 per cent would be needed, which might be 50, it might be one hundred. But, in any case, the opposition is committed to a duty high enough to keep out American machinery and all other foreign machinery and goods of every kind and description, the like of which are produced in Canada." The Government tariff policy was continued in the tariff which was strictly in accordance with the terms of the Liberal platform of 1893. The country had prospered under it, and he saw no reason, nor did he believe that the country saw any reason, for a change of policy or a change of administration.

SEEDING

The roads are rapidly drying up and the land is lying ready for the seed. The farmers are making every possible effort to get their seed in the ground. Wheat is nearly all sown and the oat seeding is well advanced. The seeding season is much later than usual this year caused by the backward spring but the old timers are expecting a large yield, relying on the old saying which has been proved conclusively in this district, that a late spring is followed by full barns in the fall. Newcomers must not understand this to mean that there is no hurry to get the seed sown, for once the ground is ready, early or late, the sowing must be immediately done. Everything depends upon getting the grain in the ground at the earliest possible opportunity.

ARBOR DAY

Tomorrow is Arbor Day, being the second Friday in May. It is a public holiday throughout the Territories and it is hoped that our merchants, labor employers and citizens generally will take advantage of the day to see that their residences are beautified by the planting of a few trees. It should be a day of general straightening up for getting things so much to the attractiveness of a town as neat and tastefully kept residences.

—Calgary Herald.—The Doukhobors having divested themselves of their trousers are now marching on Saskatoon, where they will probably fall upon the rear guard of the Barr colony. The feelings of both parties when they meet, are more easily imagined than described.

—The marriage was solemnized yesterday evening at the Presbyterian manse of Mr. Will J. Reid, of this Edmonton Carriage Company, and Miss Mabel M. Shilto, two of Edmonton's popular young people. The happy couple left this morning for Calgary and other points to spend their honeymoon.
—Volume 1, No. 1, of the Ozonegram, the new journal published in Vancouver, B.C., by Editors Lowery of Lowery's Clinic, and MacAdams, of the Postbreak, has just arrived at this office. It is a neat well printed, eight page paper. Its pages bristle with ideas of a striking and impressive originality. It thus states its aim "As sparks fly upward, as sap starts in the springtime, as the tide follows the moon, so this journal will ever gravitate to the right side of everything, firm in the belief that hell should be administered to the wicked on a wholesale basis."

EDMONTON JAIL

On Monday we published a letter addressed to Frank Oliver, M. P., from the Minister of Public Works, Ottawa and forwarded to P. F. Tindal, Secretary of the Edmonton Board of Trade. The letter said that tenders for the construction of a jail would be called for. This morning the plans and specifications have arrived and are in charge of the caretaker at the Land Office where they may be seen. Tenders will be received up to Thursday, May 28th.

WATERWORKS SYSTEM

The test of the water mains was continued this morning. Water was pumped through the mains and a hydrant opened several rods above the hill up from the power house. A large stream issued from the hydrant for the first time in the history of the town. The hydrant was then closed and the pumps set to work forcing water into the first section of the mains to test them. A leakage occurred, a few hundred yards from the power house, which stopped the test for the time being.

This morning Mr. Fry started a gang of men at work excavating for the laying of the sewer and water pipes on Victoria street, working west.

The Building Boom

is now on and the demand for lumber is very keen. If you want to get materials on the ground in time for your building you had better order from us at once. The undecided man puts things off. He always waits until tomorrow so he can change his mind. Then he waits until the next day so he can change it back again. In the meantime, lumber gets scarce, prices go up and he blames the lumber combine. Alberta's lumber is scarce now, but we are shipping in B.C. lumber as fast as we can get it, at the rate of a car a day, and we can take care of your order if you give us a chance.

FLYTIME is now here and the flies are always punctual. Better place your orders at once for screen doors and windows. It is much easier to keep out the flies than to drive them out when they get in.

E. F. Clark, member for West Toronto followed Mr. Patterson, but did not reply to him. Mr. Clark is a lucid and effective speaker but on this occasion he was anything but impressive, depending on a rebuke of figure of arguments which have done duty for the last six years, rather than upon any statement of the policy which his party proposed to pursue if they were entrusted with power—the main thing if not the only thing, that the public is interested in as concerning that party.

While it must be admitted that protectionist sentiment has a strong hold in the manufacturing towns of Eastern Canada, the course of this debate and its result does not indicate as great strength on the part of the protectionists as the debate of a year ago. The retirement of the ex-minister of Public Works from the Cabinet has very considerably cleared the air and now that he has not the prestige of a "Cabinet" position to give weight to his utterances those, although always clever and to the point are not as damaging to the cause which he attacks equally and in the open as was his protectionist attitude while a member of a decidedly revenue tariff government. There is no doubt however, that day by day the protectionist interests are looking more and more to Mr. Tarte as the means of getting their way in tariff adjustments. His only voice since leaving the government was given with the opposition on principle of high protection. His sentiments are at one with theirs on this that he declared to be the permanent issue. Nothing can be more natural than that at no distant date he will be fighting side by side with them as ardently as he fought against them a few years ago. It is to be hoped, however, with a less measure of success.

Frank Deserter

Frank has been deserted. This step was taken by the people on the advice of Chief engineer McHenry of the C. & N. R. On examining the standing portion of Turtle mountain, he had found large fissures in its rear and noticed that these fissures were gradually but perceptibly widening, showing that the mountain was slowly bending forward. This alarming fact was told to the people through Premier Haultain, who advised the desertion of the town, and developments. Explorers were sent for to hurry the fall of the remaining portion of the mountain, as long as it remains in its present state the town of Frank is unsafe. On the other hand there is a probability the next slide taking a course opposite site from the town. In this case Frank will likely be rebuilt, and mining operations recommenced.

Rothmay takes charge at Vegreville; Mr. Woodside, Beaver Lake East; Mr. Storneloe, Tofield; Mr. Findlay, Riviere Qui Parle; J. D. McRae, Millet and Angus Ridge. Last Friday the Rev. WILL OFFER ON

MONDAY, MAY 4th, 1903,

200 = LOTS = 200

A portion of the ROWLAND ESTATE, otherwise known as "THE SYNDICATE."

Plans and Prices can be seen at the Office on and after the date mentioned.

This is the closest and best property available, and the choicest in and about Edmonton. The furthest part is from 10 to 15 minutes from the post office. The property is eminently the people's portion: is not controlled by a policy of inertia dictated by "Hebraic Hatred." The surveys conform to existing ones, and the streets will be projected to their legitimate confines. Building Sites on the verge of the hill overlooking the mighty Saskatchewan, the foliage and verdure of whose banks is not exceeded by the fiercest tropics or softest Pacific scenes, abound. Prices will be uniform and moderate, tempered as a corrective of the present indefinite craze.

TERMS.—One third Cash. Balance 6 and 12 months, interest 8 per cent. Agreements $2 each, transfers free.

REAL ESTATE. EDMONTON.

HORSE HILLS.

The Halfway Hotel is about to change hands. Wm. Ross of Edmonton has purchased the hotel and will take charge this week. Mr. T. Skelly leaves shortly for Fort Saskatchewan where he will take charge of the Queen's hotel as soon as the present occupant's lease expires.

Real estate is still on the move. C. White has bought the farm of Wm. Shaw at Walker's Flat, and intends to make extensive improvements thereon this coming summer.

J. Sears of Rossland, B.C. has leased J. Lewis' farm. It is evident that extensive farming operations are in progress there as horses and men in abundance can be seen daily in the fields, converting the stubble into black ground and otherwise preparing the land for seeding.

GEO. FRASER moved to his farm at Clover Bar last week, where he will be occupied for some time in seeding. After the spring work is over he will come back to reside on the farm of S. Horwick.

A baseball club is being organized by the boys on the Hills and we may look forward to some lively times here this summer. Practice will take place weekly on the grounds opposite Mr. Seeger's farm.

A Lehman has leased the O. Chablis farm for this year and is at present busily engaged tilling the soil.

G. Corberand has been appointed postmaster of Horse Hills. The office which has for some time past been sadly neglected has now resumed business as usual. As the authorities were kind enough to give us semi-weekly mails, which the patrons of this office greatly appreciate, all are now rejoicing that they once more receive the mail regularly.

Coronation has now become our rival district and owing to the large congregations which attend Sabbath service there every Sunday, the attendance here has greatly diminished. Sabbath school and weekly prayer-meetings have now ceased, owing to insufficient attendance.

May 5th.

NOTICE.

The annual general meeting of the Edmonton Cricket club will be held this evening, 7th inst. at 8.30 p.m. in the office of St. George's Hotel, post office block.

All those interested in the game of cricket are cordially invited to this meeting.

LUTHERAN CHURCH.
German Lutheran Church services will be held every Sunday evening at 7.30 in the Gurney & Leonard building.

Pastor.
